THE advocates of "civil liberty" surely have a hard study in the Ohio county case. Do the "top line" candidates and the manner in which they got their nominations really represent the true idea of "civil liberty"?

LUCK seems to hang at the heels of some persons and even to "tag" after them to attract their attention. A bicycle rider in Pennsylvania stopped at the end of a short spin along a public road to find a ten-dollar bill tangled up in the spokes of his wheel.

HAVESVILLE, although a small town, has just added a second home and real house to her equipment for fire, which are in the hands of two fire companies. She now has 600 feet of 2½ inch hose to be attached to her engines. This is something like the condition Hartford and other towns should be in, to be able to combat the flames.

It is suggested that we remind the editors and managers of the Hartford Republican, whose columns each week contain slanderous insinuations against one or more of the men composing the Democratic county ticket, that they are treading upon a large sized volcano, the explosion of which would in no wise affect Democracy's candidates.

H. A. SOMMERS has been compelled, on account of ill health, to give up the editorship of his paper, the Elizabethtown News, and seek rest and quiet amid new scenes and environments. The members of the Kentucky press join with many others in wishing him a pleasant stay and a speedy recovery. The News, however, will still be in good hands, Mr. W. A. Sommers retaining the management and editorship.

"Murder will out, and at midnight graveyards yawn"—Hartford Republican.

True, yes—so it is said. And if all the things that were said against Judge Weddell in the recent Republican campaign were "out," wouldn't they pretty nearly make a "murder" tale? And the blind tigers of Ohio county didn't some of the wags at all hours of the day and night in behalf of the head of the Republican ticket?

MISS ELVIRA SYDNOR MILLER, the editor of the "Tattler" column in the Louisville Times and a writer of considerable note, has been appointed passenger agent of the "Texas" road in Louisville. Miss Miller will continue her writings as before. She is perhaps the first female passenger agent of a railroad, but those who know Miss Miller's hustling ability are confident of her success in this new field.

It was amusing to see how quickly the subject was dropped by our Republican friends down the Alley, at Beaver Dam and at Cromwell, when the matter of "an off-the-record" of politicians was pressed home to their own ranks. Being reminded that when it comes to chronic office-seekers and office-holders, the Republican county ticket affords a conspicuous example, they had nothing further to say about that line.

THE Messrs. Rogers undertake to modify their brutal and indecent attack on Judge Miller by saying that they merely called him a "political heronaphrodite," which, they seem to think, relieves the vile name of any odium. Suppose Judge Miller should, without provocation, call Mr. Rogers a "political scoundrel," a "political snout," a "gun." Would Mr. Rogers take it kindly, and would the public consider it a nice way in which to open a campaign?

It would seem the part of prudence for the people to select such men for office as have good records. It would be wise to trust the finances of the people to the care of any man whose standing in society has been attained through questionable means. The people should look out for their own interests in Ohio county.—Hartford Republican.

Correct, old boy. And it is looking at the matter in this light and making just this kind of a distinction, that the people of Ohio county are going to rectify Judge Miller to the County Judgeship next fall, along with the balance of the Democratic ticket.

THE Hartford Republican seems to doubt the genuineness of the letter published in THE HERALD last week in defense of Judge Miller and signed "An Old Line Republican." If the Messrs. Rogers will come to either of THE HERALD's offices in a civil manner and ask for the real name of this "Old Line Republican," they will be accommodated, provided they will trade confidences by revealing the identity of one "Observer," who attacked the political records of Messrs. Miller and Smith. The mere mention of THE HERALD writer's name will convince them that he is one of the foremost Republicans in Ohio county. Gentlemen, do you wish an audience with us?

POLITICAL philosophers are laying great stress upon the municipal elections which have lately taken place in some of the large cities, as being an indication of the trend of the financial question. Such could hardly be the case. The money question, as it relates to public finances, is now dormant. None of the candidates elected or defeated was running, especially upon his record as shown from his financial position. The financial question is essentially a national one, and it is only when candidates are in the field who would be able in their offices to change it, that this test becomes one of moment.

NOTWITHSTANDING a number of Kentucky Democrats have of late years, for reasons which seemed sufficient for themselves, temporarily abandoned the Democratic organization and in some instances affiliated with the Republicans, yet there is a spark of the old party love in every Democrat's breast which in few instances has been extinguished. The truth is, there is nothing in Republicanism to entice a loyal Democrat. The two principles are antagonistic to each other in almost every detail. The Republican party monopoly has no greater ability for Democracy than it had ten or twenty years ago, when it was the purpose of every true Democrat to oppose that organization. Kentucky estranged Democrats are now fast coming back, for they realize that Democracy affords them the only congenial home.

Every few days some political philosopher rises to remark that "Bryanism is dead." Just what is meant by "Bryanism" it would be hard to determine, unless it is the sentiment, as a whole, promulgated by Mr. Bryan in his political deliverances. But it will be a sad day indeed for the people when Bryanism is dead in this country. Mr. Bryan was defeated at the polls and his political views may seem to have been repudiated by the people, yet his interest in behalf of the common people and his ideas in regard to governmental affairs, still stand among the highest ideals of public thought and duty. Mr. Bryan may never be a candidate for office again, but Bryanism, as applied to the safe and economical administration of government, will still live in the hearts of those who love liberty, justice and the preservation of the rights of the people.

THE doctor—God bless him—seems to be right in it, ahead of most of us ordinary folks, at all times. He is the first to greet us in this world and generally among the last at our dying bedside. He doctors us for colic and cramp in childhood and for gout and rheumatism in old age. The insurance companies will not believe that we have been sick or that we are dead, until they have his word for it. He changes more and perhaps gets less for his services than the member of any profession. When we're well, we think his services don't amount to much, but when we get sick, he's the first one we send for. His treatment misses about as often as it hits the mark, but few of us take into account the real value of the "hits." He smiles as he puts the lance into us, and the only time he seems sad is when he pityingly looks us over after being hastily summoned and announces that our case is not serious enough to demand his attention. He is the mainstay of every community, and the best trusted man therein. We all owe him, but it often more a debt of gratitude than of money.

AQUINALDO.
There has been considerable speculation of late, since the capture of the doughty Filipino leader, Aguinaldo, as to just what will be done with this young fighter for freedom. Some persons seem to want to kill him; others contend that he should be exiled to Guam, while still others appear to be willing that he should be accepted as a citizen of the United States upon his confession of good faith in, and oath of allegiance to our Government.

To every lover of freedom as it is exemplified in the traditions of our Government, the character of this young leader appears in a touching manner. It will be noted by those who have even in a small way studied his life, that Aguinaldo was never an enemy of the United States until our Government showed itself an enemy of him and of the principles for which he contended. He gave the Americans invaluable assistance in the capture of Manila and in the previous maneuvers. He all the while seemed to labor under the impression, whether justified or not, that the United States intended to give him and his people the freedom and liberty of self-government for which they had so long fought. Appearance and declarations certainly substantiated him in this belief. He proved a faithful ally until, partly owing to a change of policy by President McKinley and partly to a confusion of aims of American Generals, war was precipitated among the allies. Seeing what appeared to be a war of freedom turned into an evident war of conquest, he fled to the company and protection of his people.

The question "What shall we do with Aguinaldo?" can best be answered by our Government giving him and his people the self-government and freedom which Mr. McKinley has promised them, and making the gallant Filipino leader the head of that government for the present. Aguinaldo is sagacious, capable, and popular above any others of his people who have appeared as the leaders and defenders of Filipino freedom. Mr. Frederick Palmer, an observing writer who has spent many months in the Philippines, says that, to his mind, "Aguinaldo, alone of all the Filipino leaders, has sufficient stability of character and popularity to organize a great movement and hold it together."

By establishing popular autonomy in the Philippines, with Aguinaldo at the head of affairs for his people, our Government would simply be keeping the promise of our President in regard to the welfare of these far-distant people. In his speech of acceptance,

TO SUSANA.
O, Susana, you're a daisy—
You would drive most people crazy,
With the stuff you write for poetry about our public men.
Your diction is distressing;
Your charges simply "guessing";
Your mode of speech reminds us of a frightened cackling hen.
You should bear in mind, when writing, "poetry" you're editing.
Restore order to the islands and establish a just and generous government, in which the inhabitants shall have the largest participation of which they are capable.
The "top line"—you've heard about it—
And the "ideas" of November,
You should very hard remember
Will no doubt find the Democrats victorious in the fight.
There is one important matter, however, in your clatter,
That you failed to mention softly, or in any way at all.
The "top line"—you've heard about it—
And you mustn't even doubt it—
It's doomed to sure defeat, old girl, when the votes are cast next fall.

July 12th last, Mr. McKinley, in speaking of the Philippines, said:
The high purpose of this nation is to restore order to the islands and establish a just and generous government, in which the inhabitants shall have the largest participation of which they are capable.

On September 10th, in his final letter of acceptance, Mr. McKinley said:
It is our purpose to establish in the Philippines a government suitable to the wants and conditions of the inhabitants, and to prepare them for self-government, and to give them self-government when they are ready for it, and as rapidly as they are ready for it.

In his inaugural address, March 4, his last official utterance, the President said:
The settled purpose, long ago proclaimed, to afford the inhabitants of the islands self-government as fast as they are ready for it, will be pursued with earnestness and fidelity.

These promises are definite and specific. They should, and we hope do, mean exactly what they say. "Self-government" is not government by another. Neither, in the full meaning of the word, does it mean a government under the protectorate of espionage of another country. To Americans, when applied to a people, it means government of themselves, by themselves, for themselves. Few persons besides Aguinaldo understand as fully as does he, the needs and demands of his people. It would hardly seem reasonable that any American, who, three or four years ago was as ignorant of the geography and topography of the Philippines as he is at present of the darkest portions of Africa, should be able at present to administer to the wants and conditions of the Filipinos. They are an alien race, and for a proper and progressive observance of self-government, should have one of their own people to direct their affairs. The attempt to govern the Philippines at long range would result as disastrously to our country as it did to Spain, whose misfortune in that respect are familiar to every reader of history.

Every loyal citizen of this Republic, every believer in those cherished principles of equality and justice which have made our nation famous as a free people, joins Mr. McKinley in his sentiments that it should be and "is our purpose to establish in the Philippines a government suitable to the wants and conditions of the inhabitants." With such a government and with Aguinaldo at the head of it, our nation would acquire itself gloriously and with every indication in favor of a happy solution of affairs.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running sound or roaring in your ears, and you are deaf. Deafness is usually the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. We will give you Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. E. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Bestial Atrocities in China.
WASHINGTON, April 8.—Recent reports received at the State Department show that a large number of women in China are committing suicide on account of being mistreated by the foreign soldiers. When a Chinese woman is criminally abused, by a foreigner, or any other person, she notifies her relatives and those of her husband, and at the same time announces that on a certain day she will kill herself. The result of the atrocities is that in many of the Chinese villages and even in the larger cities where the soldiers have been located, the female population has almost entirely disappeared. In the lower provinces the Russians are the chief aggressors.

The reports further say that in the Manchurian province the Russians have not abused the natives in the same wholesale and brutal fashion. It is their intention to make the best possible impression in the country they intend to keep, and in the other provinces, where other armies are responsible, they make the worst possible impression, knowing that the countries of Europe and America will be blamed, and to some extent they will get by comparison the credit for their gentler rule in Manchuria.

Congress tell you that there is something wrong in the throat or lungs. It is the cause, not the cough, that you must look after. Morley's Honey Peppermint Cure searches out the cause of trouble, breaks the inflamed surface, stops the irritation, loosens the cough and cures you thoroughly. Sold by agent in every town.

DESPERATE

Is the Condition of Affairs in Porto Rico—Multitudes of Starving Inhabitants.
[Special cable to the Cincinnati Enquirer]
SAN JUAN DE PORTO RICO, April 9.—I was here before the war with Spain and most of the time, sane and must admit that, while sanitary and other reforms have been worked out and other beneficent reforms projected, unavoidable disasters and inexperienced administration have caused the material condition of the people to be worse now than under Spanish rule. In a number of districts the people are actually starving. There is no work; the planters have no money to undertake cultivation. The banks will not lend them even a small amount.

Stories are told of the immense opportunities for capitalists, but some how they do not seem to come here.

The municipalities have no funds and have failed in attempts to borrow the necessary amounts to conduct affairs or undertake improvements.

The markets are paralyzed. The warehouses are full of tobacco. There is no sale for coffee. The people are denied citizenship and are left like prisoners on the island to starve. These things appeal to the people more than implanting schools and other reforms.

Utterly heart sick, the people gather at the wharves, gaze out on the water, and beg the ship owners to take them anywhere.

Thousands are going to Hawaii, Cuba, San Domingo, Ecuador and other islands. Agents are picking up skilled young men and women.

The local press urges the government to take action at once to stop the exodus. The emigration to Ecuador has been practically stopped because of the ill-treatment of those who sought refuge there. Ship load after ship load of people are leaving for other places.

If prosperity should return to the island, the planters will be unable to secure enough labor if the exodus continues. The emigrant agents have been instructed to secure mostly white emigrants.

The question is raised by the press regarding what protection emigrants can secure in other countries. If they are not United States citizens, the Porto Ricans ask to whom they can appeal for protection without passports. It is proposed to make a test case as soon as possible.

The laborers cannot read and do not understand the risk when they say they had rather go any other place than starve. The probability of work here without government aid is small. Matters are simply growing worse. Property is deteriorating in value. The picture is not bright, but true, despite the statements of Governor Allen and the Government organs here.

Tried to Steal Girls from College.
BOWLING GREEN, Ky., April 6.—The sensational episode at Potter College recently is still the engrossing topic of conversation here.

Five young society men of the town, between 12 and 1 o'clock at night drove a closed carriage to the entrance of the college campus, and by a previous arrangement with the girls who were to be taken out, by means of ladders, enabled four young women to leave their bedrooms and reach the college grounds, but as the fifth young woman was descending the ladder, the Rev. B. F. Cabell, President of the college, was apprised of the noise and, going to the part of the building from which the young women students were leaving, he saw what was going on and commanded the young men to leave and ordered the girls to return to their rooms.

A pistol shot was fired as a warning to the President to leave, but he fired the contents of a double-barreled shotgun at the young men, who in turn fired several times at him, driving him back into safe quarters in the building. The alarm was so general by this time that the young men had to leave and the girls had to return to their bedrooms. The latest developments are in connection with the action of the grand jury now in session which has returned two indictments against the boys concerned in the affair. The parties indicted are: Floyd Nahn, Willis Potter, Harry Nahn, Roland Fitch and Pleasant Potter, Jr. One indictment charges them with maliciously shooting at the Rev. B. F. Cabell, President of the college, with intent to kill, but without wounding him. This is a felony for which the punishment is confinement in the penitentiary.

The same boys are indicted in the second indictment which accuses them of banding and confederating together to go to Potter College unbidden and without permission to entice and decoy therefrom Miss Lena Hopkins, Bessie Simpson, Florence Cottrell, Bessie Boyer and Ruth Haynes. It is also charged that they carried with them, which they placed at a second-story window and enticed and induced Miss Hopkins, Simpson and Cottrell to leave the building by means of it and to also leave the grounds.

The boys all belong to the most prominent families of the city, and the girls to excellent families at their different homes. Misses Cottrell and Haynes live at Cloverport, Miss Simpson at Nicholasville, Miss Boyer in Indiana, and Miss Hopkins in Louisiana.

Bench warrants were issued at once and have been served, and the boys are all under bond to answer the indictments at the next September term of court.

Later, Dr. B. F. Cabell, President of Potter College, Saturday appealed to Gov. Beckham to pardon the young men indicted at Bowling Green. The Governor declined to take any action in the matter.

"A Boss Scout—That's All."
The Wichita Eagle publishes an interview with Congressman Chester L. Long, of Kansas, relative to the appointment of Frederick Funston to a Brigadier Generalship in the regular army. Mr. Long speaks of his experience with Gen. Corbin.

"When I read of Funston's heroic deed," says Mr. Long, "I went straight to General Corbin's office and said, 'Well, General, you see what Funston has done?'
"Yes, I have seen it," replied Corbin, not too pleasantly.
"Well," I said, "don't you think that you ought to make Funston a Brigadier General in the regular army?"
"No, no," said Corbin. "He has done nothing to warrant that."
"But," I insisted, "it seems to me that he has done a very daring thing. He has concluded the war."
"Mr. Long," said Corbin, "I am making Lieutenants of better stuff than Funston every day. Funston is a boss scout—that's all."

"We want him made Brigadier General," I insisted.
"Mr. Long," said Mr. Corbin, "the army has become a great school; we want teachers for Brigadier Generals; we want men who can teach, and not those who should be taught."

"But the President may want to appoint him," I said.
"The President can do so, of course," said General Corbin. "But it was plain to be seen," added Mr. Long "that the President would never do it on the recommendation of General Corbin."

PLEASANT RIDGE, KY.
[Special to THE HERALD.]
April 8.—Miss Mollie Morgan, who was kicked by a horse Saturday, is improving. She is not thought to be seriously hurt.

Miss Dona Westerfield is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Annie Yeiser, in Union county this week.

Mr. W. M. Cox purchased a fine horse from Will Wells, colored, for only $2.50. He had a severe rain and hail storm Friday afternoon. It came near being a cyclone. A great amount of fencing was blown down.

Mr. Clint Turner and wife were the guests of Mr. T. B. Bell and family Sunday to Hartford Friday.

Sunday School at this place is progressing nicely. Every one is invited to attend.

Miss Elvira Cox, who has been sick, is much improved.

Mrs. Dr. Thorpe is visiting her mother, Mrs. Boston, of Beech Grove, this week.

CERIALVO.
[Special to THE HERALD.]
April 8. Died at her home here March 30, 1901, Mrs. Francis E. wife of Mr. Wm. Blackburn. She leaves a husband and three children, a mother, father, three sisters and two brothers and a host of friends and relatives to mourn her loss.

After funeral services which were conducted by Rev. Shugart, her remains were interred at the burying ground at this place in the presence of a large concourse of friends and relatives. She was about 33 years of age and professed faith in Christ several years ago. She had many friends who loved her, but God saw fit to take her to that bright region where sickness and death are felt no more.

Miss Lullie Shugart will open a spring school at this place to-day.

Miss Maude Barnard left last Saturday week for the Goshen neighborhood to commence a spring school.

Mr. V. B. Morton, who has been sick for the past two or three weeks, is able to be out again.

Mrs. Geo. Erwin, of near Calhoun, visited relatives in this neighborhood last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kinable left for their home in Louisville last week.

A Miss Renner, of Rochester, visited at this place last week.

Mrs. Southard has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Morris, for the past two or three weeks.

We understand that Mr. Ben Graves intends to start to Utah to-day.

Mrs. Frank Dennis died March 31, of consumption at her home near here and was buried at Nelson Creek on the following day. She was 25 years of age. She professed faith in Christ before her death and spoke of the bright hopes she had for Heaven. She leaves a husband and one little girl, three sisters and one brother and many others to mourn her loss. Weep not for her, for we feel confident that she is at rest.

ONLY ONE WAY.

There is only one way to make a success in life and that is by doing right, being honest, being truthful, being saving. That is the way we have gained such a big trade. We treat you right when you come to see us. We show you HONEST goods, tell you the truth about them and we save you money.

To accommodate this trade it requires goods of every description. That is what we are doing—just keeping a large assortment of useful articles that people want and must have. There is no money saved by buying what you do not need, even if it is cheap, but there is money saved and big money at that, if you will only compare our goods and prices with those of other merchants—and select what you need, pay for it—as we do business for CASH and do not charge you for old debts some one else has made. That is how we are selling better goods for less money than anybody else.

Last week we told you about some of our new goods, and thought we would quote you prices this week, but our space is limited, and instead, we respectfully ask you to call and we will cheerfully give you prices on any article that you may desire.

It is our aim and desire to keep the best and newest goods to select from and as we have an extra large stock, you can surely find something that will please you, especially in Dress Goods, Calicoes, Lawns, Percals, Dimities, Duck, etc., and everything worn during the Summer months.

We will announce that our new Stock of Shoes is now in and you can surely find something in our assortment that will fit you. These Shoes have been selling on their MERITS. When you begin wearing Brown's #5 Shoes, you will wear no other brand.

In regard to Clothing, we will say that our stock is full and complete. We have a good assortment and you can get what you want. Our prices are the lowest, and that's why we sell more Suits than anybody else.

HATS and MILLINERY.—Remember we do the up-to-date trimming in Millinery, and we have a big stock to select from. Hoping to have you call and see us, I am

Yours very truly,

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Rumors are afloat in New York of a gigantic railway combination, by which it is proposed that the management of all the leading railroad systems of the country is to be vested in one large controlling company.

Holy Thursday was observed by Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, who washed the feet of twelve mendicants who were picked up in the streets. They were afterwards dined and given money.

The Pretoria correspondent of the London Post says the Boers intend to fight to a finish. It is claimed that those who are surrendering are men of no standing and that the real fighting men are still in the field.

Gen. Cassius M. Clay fired on a deputy sheriff's posse that had gone to White Hall to serve a writ on him Friday. A pitched battle resulted, and the Old Lion was wounded, while several of the officers had narrow escapes. Gen. Clay's friends fear his mind is unbalanced.

Mr. William Elliott, one of the leading farmers and foremost citizens of Hancock county, died at his home near Unity Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. of blood poisoning. Just a week before the day of his death Mr. Elliott received a slight scratch on the hand from a briar. Blood poison set up and he continued to grow rapidly worse until death came.

"I have been troubled with indigestion for ten years, have tried many things and spent much money to no purpose," writes a sufferer from Indigestion. "I have taken two bottles and gotten more relief from them than all other medicines taken. I feel more like a boy than I have felt in twenty years." Anderson Riggs of Sunny Lane, Tex. Thousands have testified as did Mr. Riggs. J. H. Williams.

Case Against Powers.
The case of Caleb Powers, convicted in the lower court of complicity in the assassination of Senator Goebel, and reversed in the Court of Appeals, is thus summed up by Judge White in writing his dissenting opinion:
"The testimony of the accomplices as to the vital facts was corroborated by other evidence and by circumstances established beyond question. It clearly shown that the appellant was not only a party to, but a leading spirit in, the conspiracy to bring to Franfort and keep there a band of men supplied with arms and ammunition. Such things are not done vainly or without a purpose. No jury of intelligence could believe that such an armament could be organized and brought to the seat of government but for the purpose of intimidation. Whether they might not also interfere from the fact that so many of the State militia were brought along dressed in citizens' clothes that the purpose was to use this militia as State troops to protect them from arrest or to hold their own against the civil authorities, we need not determine. In any view of the facts, the enterprise was a felony producing a condition of anarchy at the State government, and the peace and good name of the State require that the majesty of the law should be upheld in such a manner that it will not be repeated. If, of necessity, contemplated such a state of things that violence, if not bloodshed, would follow in its wake, and where a homicide was committed in furtherance of it, appellant who was its director, was clearly guilty of a crime. "To reverse the judgment of conviction on the facts which are either admitted or so clearly established as to be beyond controversy, is not only to delay justice, but to give no force to the statute providing that such judgments may only be reversed when on the whole record the court is satisfied that the substantial rights of the accused have been prejudiced."

Awful Fate of Cannibalism.
LONDON, April 8.—The Singapore correspondent of the Daily Express wires a ghastly story of cannibalism at sea brought to Singapore by two survivors of the Nova Scotian bark Angola, wrecked six days' sail from Manila, October 23d last. The correspondent says: "The survivors, Johnson, a Swede, and Martincorn, a Spaniard, assert that the Angola struck a reef. Two rafts were built. The smaller, bearing five men, disappeared. The other with twelve men drifted about for forty-two days. The sailors ate barnacles, seaweed and finally their boots. "On the twenty-fifth day two became insane and killed themselves. On the twenty-sixth, a Frenchman killed the mate with an ax, drank his blood and tried to eat his brains, but was prevented by the others. Next day the Frenchman was killed while attempting to murder the Captain. The survivors, all of whom were now insane, ate the Frenchman's body. "Cannibalism continued until only Johnson and Martincorn remained. On the forty-second day the raft stranded on Subi or Flat Island, in the Natuna group (northwest of Borneo). Johnson and Martincorn were awfully emaciated. Friendly Malays sent them by junk to Singapore."

Spring coughs are specially dangerous and unless cured at once, serious results often follow. One Minute Cough Cure acts like magic. It is not a common mixture, but is a high grade remedy. J. H. Williams.

The Cocos and Rockledge News has the following notice of our neighbor and countryman: "Dr. M. T. McDowell, of Hartford, Ky., who has been recuperating here for the past three months, left last Friday for a stop-over visit at St. Augustine, thence to New Orleans. Dr. McDowell made a number of friends while here who would greet his return with great pleasure. His health improved very perceptibly, and he was, all told very favorably impressed with our town and section."
